

aluminum, titanium and magnesium parts for golf clubs and for other purposes. The preferred embodiment is applying this process to golf club head parts comprised of magnesium or titanium alloys. Other applications of this invention can be made to other metal alloys to produce golf equipment without departing from the spirit or scope of this invention.